Executive Summary - Major Insights

- Illinois, along with other major states such as New York and California, has been experiencing negative population growth for the past few years, including 2017, 2018, 2019, and the record-breaking 2021.
- The population grows slightly in 2020 but it was not sustained the following year.
- This population issues are mostly narrated in a very political way by both Democratic and Republican parties to stir public opinion towards their opponents' actions or inactions.
- Some of the main reasons for the population decline are attributed to:
 - o the rising crime,
 - high income taxes,
 - declining job market,
 - where they are all exacerbated by the COVID-19 pandemic crisis.
- There are some positive highlights from Illinois that hopefully can attract the businesses and residents back:
 - o government effort to increase investment to boost job market (such as training, apprenticeship),
 - o growing and stronger diversity within the communities,
 - continuous effort of health care improvement from Medicare allocation to programs such as Sidecar Health (note: information extracted from Named Entity Recognition findings)
- Accordingly, businesses may be attracted to the increased investment and residents may be attracted to the more vibrant communities and seeing government efforts to improve job opportunities.

Actionable Recommendations

- Government can possibly focus to improve on the areas which cause most people to flee the region:
 - Crime: balancing between short and long-term strategies for crime handling and prevention to curb the number of crimes over time
 - o Income Taxes: introduce business incentives as a manifestation of optimal tax utilization
 - Job market: continuous investment to improve job market and supply vs. demand issues
 - COVID-19: recovery activities, improve health care program/ innovations

 Regarding the growing diversity, government can also focus more on strengthening communities and improve health and safety altogether.

Two major topics through relevant articles:

- 1. Modest gain of population
- 2. Historic population drops

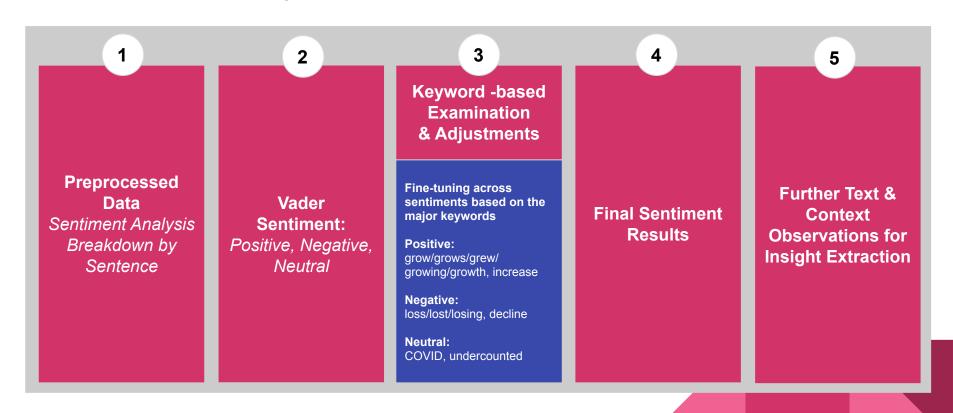

Which seem like two contradictory facts but actually in line with the real condition (refer to the population change graph).

We can also see that big cities / metropolitan areas similar like Chicago, Illinois experienced the same thing (like New York that was explicitly mentioned here, and also California when looking deeper into the articles).

Sentiment Analysis Procedure

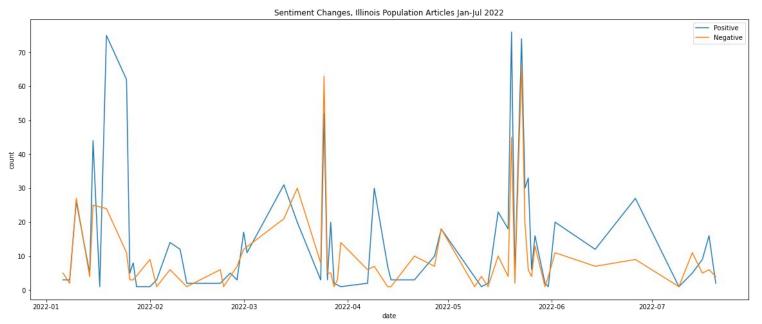

Sentiment Over Time

By proportion/percentage, news articles about Illinois population are still dominated by positive sentiments within the range of 57%-63%. The gap can be considered not an extreme polarity, this can also be caused by the tendency of categorizing sentiment as positive by the algorithm.

By the end of the period (Jul-22) the articles seem to lean toward negative reviews more as it records the highest proportion of negative comments of 43%.

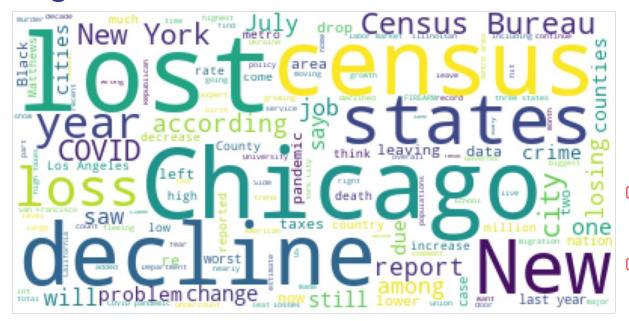

Sentiment Over Time

By actual numbers, we can see that there are content spiking during the period between January-February 2022, late March 202, and between May-June 2022.

The pattern of positive and negative seems to be consistent over time, except during end of March / early April 2022 where negative sentiments surpass the positive ones.

People are leaving Illinois due to:

- 1. High crimes
- 2. High income taxes
- 3. Declining job market
- 4. Exacerbated by COVID-19/pandemic crisis

Negative Sentiments: Reasons to Leave Illinois

High Crimes

"Those blue cities have also been in the headlines for the wrong reasons in recent years, thanks to soaring levels of violent crime blamed on progressive district attorneys and slashing of police budgets."

"They're talking about leaving because they're tired of crime, and they're tired of corruption," Irvin said.

"All those cities have been in the headlines in recent months due to draconian COVID lockdown measures and rising crime rates."

High Income Taxes

"The states with the highest personal income taxes, California, Hawaii, New Jersey and Illinois, experienced the most staggering population losses."

"People seem to be leaving to states with an improved business climate, lower taxes, and we would also say because that states with the worst government finances seem to be losing population the most," Weinberg said.

"It is also forcing them to pay the highest taxes in the Midwest."

Declining Job Market

"The exodus is likely caused by, among other things, losing young people to big cities and the loss of agricultural jobs to technology, experts said."

"Institute experts point out metro areas that lost population also saw lagging job recoveries, with the bulk of the state's missing jobs coming from Chicago."

"According to the report, Illinois added 262,600 jobs in 2021, but still lags the state's pre-pandemic employment level."

COVID-19/ Pandemic Crisis

"Lockdowns, documentation mandates, school closings, and other COVID regulations are likely just too cumbersome for some to tolerate."

"When Nuckolls left the Chicago area in July 2020, she was on the cusp of a trend: More than 100,000 people in Chicagoland followed suit over the next year, migrating to other domestic destinations during the COVID-19 pandemic."

"Now, with the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic, this combination has resulted in a historically slow pace of growth."

The growth that is mentioned in the text refers to the undercounting of Illinois population in 2020 that changes the record from population loss to a slight increase.

There seems to be a growing number of diversity in the population.

Positive Sentiments: Reasons to Stay in Illinois

Undercounting Issues

'Illinois Undercounted in 2020 Census, Actually Grew to 13 Million — The State's Largest Population Ever'.

'New census figures show Illinois' population change was actually a modest gain, but experts say warning signs remain'

The population of Illinois is growing. The census showed it shrinking. It's one of six states significantly undercounted in 2020.

Growing Diversity

Refugees drive West Ridge's growing Asian population.

Native American population in Chicago grows, stronger community, more truthful history sought throughout city.

Census: Black Population Grows in Suburbs, Shrinks in Cities.

Chinatown Chicago: Why the ethnic enclave is growing as other cities' Chinatowns see Asian populations decline.

Rural Illinois has lost population over the past decade. It's gained in diversity.

After looking deeper into the texts, some efforts were made by the government of Illinois to attract new incoming population

Government Program:

- Increased investment/funding for training & apprenticeship
- Downtown revitalization

'Governor Pritzker Calls on Federal Government to Fund Illinois Based on Population Increase.'

'Increased investment by the Pritzker administration in training and apprenticeship programs in manufacturing and aviation have created jobs and attracted new residents across the state.'

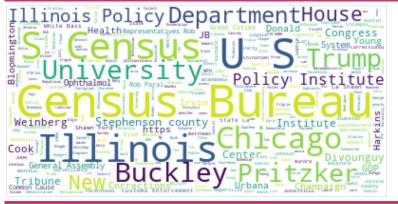

'Jerseyville, Illinois, takes action to revitalize its downtown, aiming for small business growth and population gain'

'If that goal is achieved, among the results could be an increase in population by retaining more young people and attracting new residents to Jerseyville , officials said.'

- US Census Bureau and Governor
 Pritzker show up as majority in both types of sentiments, which make sense as they are the main institution and ruler regarding population data and policy in Illinois.
- Specifically for negative sentiments, Elon Musk appears as example of a big taxpayer who fled from high-tax state to low-tax state. Donald Trump appears as one of the possible cause of undercounting in population as his sentiment toward citizenship status is very strict which creates fear on Census Bureau.
- For positive sentiment, Sidecar Health facility shows up, which is less relevant to the theme but actually can be a positive highlight for Illinois resident to stay. Similarly Medicare also shows up as one area to get focused on, related to budget allocation following the population changes, as part of government effort to attract residents.

Entity Recognition - Main Roles

US Census Bureau is dominant as they are the main institution executing the population count.

Governor Pritzker shows up the most as he is the government leader of Illinois.

Emanuel Chris Welch also shows up as he is the Speaker of the Illinois House of Representatives.

Interestingly, Democrat and Republican are very dominant. We can see that this population issue is very political and is being used to stir public opinion.

We can also see many ethnicities mentioned possibly with regards to the growing diversity in the population.
